It is important that you understand the way that they think and see the world. Pay attention to what they are interested in, what they are talking about, what they like to do, and what they want to achieve. The person you are talking with probably cares about a number of different issues. In addition, try to understand their interests, your interests, the interests of the other people involved, and the people you represent. Ask questions that let you know where they are coming from and what they think about their interests. a What interests do you have? 82157476af
